

Writing the Literature Review Part 6

Summary Tool for Literature Reviews

It can be useful to do a structured annotated bibliography while you are reading for your literature review. Some people create a spreadsheet to keep this data handy. Use the prompts below as a guide.

Complete Citation:

Study description (who, what, when, where, why?):

Main findings or argument:

Important authors cited:

Relationship to other articles or books (does it verify, complicate, contradict other works in the field?)

Relevance to my study:

Literature "bucket" or group in your study:

